Comments:

It is difficult to coordinate a group project over the internet, especially with the shortness on time that our group specifically experienced. I found that when I asked to for the group members phone numbers so that we could collaborate more efficiently I received a response from all of them the very same day. When I began writing our prototype design document and shared it with the group I saw pseudocode being typed in the very same day. I think Christian probably helped as far as writing the code but everyone here did great!
